Creag Meagaidh

Avalanche Hazard Forecast

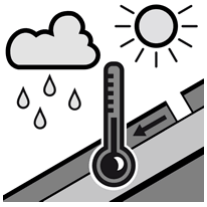
Issued 17/02/2024

FOR PERIOD 18:00HRS Sat 17/02/2024 TO 18:00HRS Sun 18/02/2024

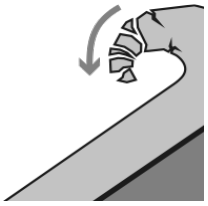
THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 18/02/2024

Avalanche Problems



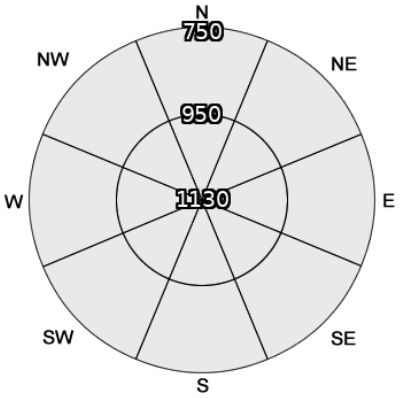
Wet Snow

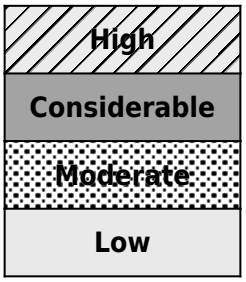


Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The moist or wet snowpack will remain generally well stabilised in most locations. Some isolated residual wet snow instability on a few steep North to East aspects above 950m. Remaining cornices will be weak and prone to sudden collapse. Falling rocks and ice will be developing objective hazards near crags. The avalanche hazard will be Low.





Forecast Weather Influences

Mild throughout: projected summit tempts circa +2 degrees C. during the day. Rain overnight with occasional light showers during the day.

Comments

Some potential for collapsing cornices, and ice and rock fall near crags.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.