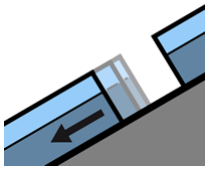
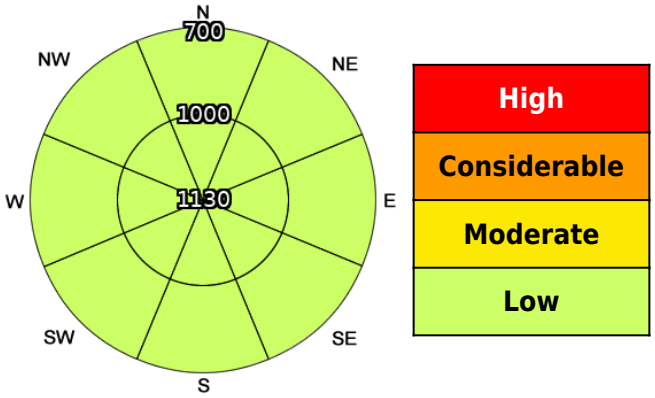
Cornices



Gliding Snow

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The old snowpack will remain wet but reasonably well stabilized, firming up near summits later. Some limited potential for minor full depth avalanches from snow laden ledges on the Post Face of Coire Ardair. Any remaining cornices will be wet and weak until onset of cooler temps. Some thin inconsequential wind drifted snow possible late in the day on North-East to East aspects above 1000m. The avalanche hazard will be Low.



Forecast Weather Influences

Mild and wet until later in the day when there will be a few snow showers. Colder later. Strong West-South-West winds.

Comments

Evidence of recent rockfall Monday. Falling ice also possible near crags early in the period.
