Torridon

Avalanche Hazard Forecast

Issued 19/03/2024

FOR PERIOD 18:00HRS Tue 19/03/2024 TO 18:00HRS Wed 20/03/2024

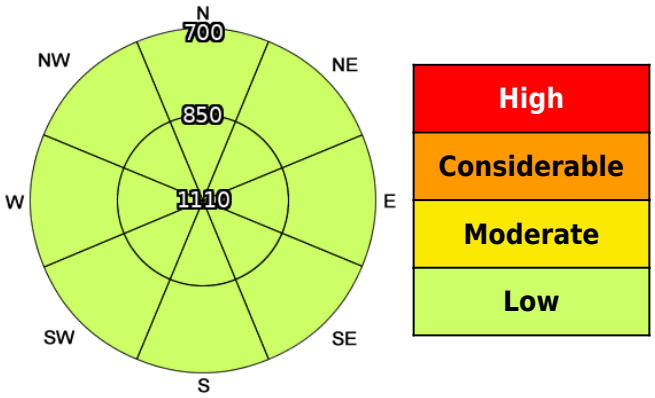
THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 20/03/2024

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The limited patchy snow cover will be stable throughout. Snow patches will refreeze and become firm and icy in the colder temperatures. Largest areas will remain, on North to East aspects above 850 metres, and largely on mountains away from the coast. There will be many bare slopes, ridges and summits throughout the forecast area. The avalanche hazard will be Low.



Forecast Weather Influences

A dry, cloudy day with light, mainly Northerly, winds. The freezing level will be around 850 metres.

Comments

More rain to come on Thursday before a return to colder conditions and snowfall on Friday.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.