

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 04/03/2022

Avalanche Problems

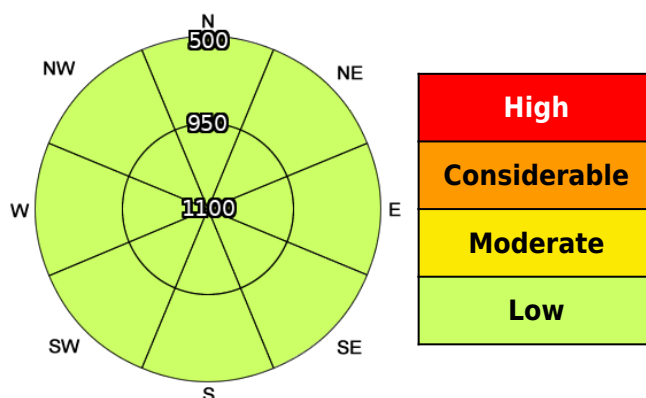

Wind Slab

Gliding Snow

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Good stability in most locations. Refrozen stable old snowpack above 800m. A few pockets of thin soft new windslab are possible at the top of steep South aspects above 950m. Glide cracks will continue to widen on selected East aspects below 800m. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Colder with a few light, sporadic snow showers. Light generally Northerly winds.

Comments

Only medium confidence in forecasted snowfall amounts. May get more: Recalibrate avalanche forecast accordingly on Friday.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.