

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE MODERATE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 27/12/2022

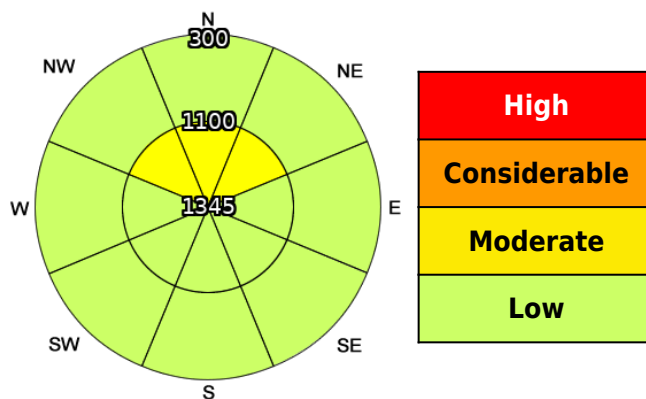

Avalanche Problems

Wind Slab

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

During Tuesday, the snowpack will start to thaw and consolidate below 1100m. Above this altitude, localised instabilities will continue to develop with greatest accumulations being on steep North-West, North and North-East facing slopes and gullies. The avalanche hazard will be Moderate

Forecast Weather Influences

Scattered snow showers will continue overnight before a period of warm and wet weather arrives on Tuesday morning. At this time the freezing level will rise to around 1100m. South-Westerly winds will back to the South-East and increase

Comments

Increasing South-Easterly winds during Tuesday

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.