

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 03/02/2023

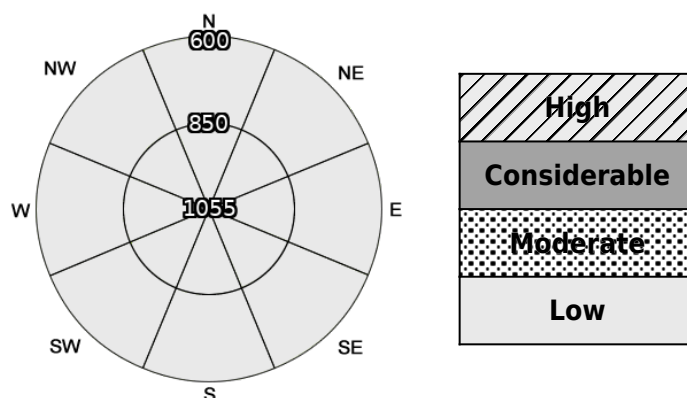

Avalanche Problems

Wet Snow

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Little change expected. The limited snowpack will have good stability in all locations, will continue to thaw and remain wet throughout. A surface crust possible at summit level for a time in the morning. Many areas will be bare of snow. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Rain will die out overnight. Patchy light rain will return by daybreak, with summit sleet possible in the morning. The Westerly gales will moderate overnight, becoming strong South-Westerly through the day. The freezing level will dip to summit level overnight, rising well above the summits by dawn.

Comments

Generally mild conditions into the weekend, with strong Westerly airflow persisting.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.