

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOWAvalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 24/02/2023*Avalanche Problems*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The wet and patchy snow cover will begin to refreeze overnight, becoming firm throughout, very firm at the higher summit level as the day progresses. There will be little evidence remaining of the recent dusting of snow. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Persistent rain at all levels will peter out overnight leaving a mostly dry and cloudy day with the odd snow shower possible in the morning. Westerly gales will gradually moderate through the period, veering North overnight and the freezing level will lower to settle at around 700 metres during the morning.

Comments

High pressure will bring dry and settled weather on Saturday and Sunday.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.