

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 29/03/2023

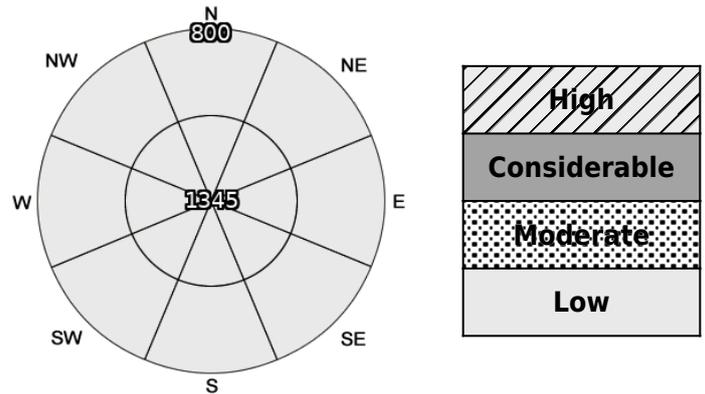

Avalanche Problems

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will become increasingly wet at all levels. Snowpack stability will slowly improve as the snow thaws and consolidates. Some loose surface instabilities will be present on steep aspects. Remaining cornices will be prone to collapse. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Increasing South-Easterly winds with the freezing level above the summits. Some light rain or drizzle throughout the day.

Comments

Becoming wet and windy at all levels

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.