

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 24/12/2023

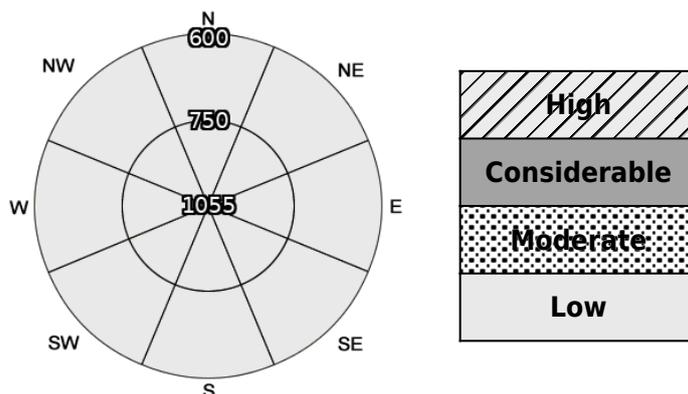

Avalanche Problems

Wet Snow

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Any remaining moist old snow lying on North-East to South-East aspects above 800 metres will gradually consolidate and refreeze during the day and will be stable. Some new snow is expected during the day and lying above 600m or so but amounts are not expected to be significant. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

The freezing level will remain well above the summits overnight lowering to 900 metres by early morning then 700 metres by end of the day. Precipitation falling as rain at summits overnight becoming light snow above around 600 metres in the day. Winds will be gale to storm force South-Westerly.

Comments

Rapidly disappearing snow today - but becoming colder in next days.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.