

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE MODERATE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Monday 23/12/2024

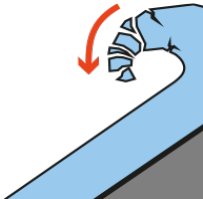

Avalanche Problems

Wind Slab

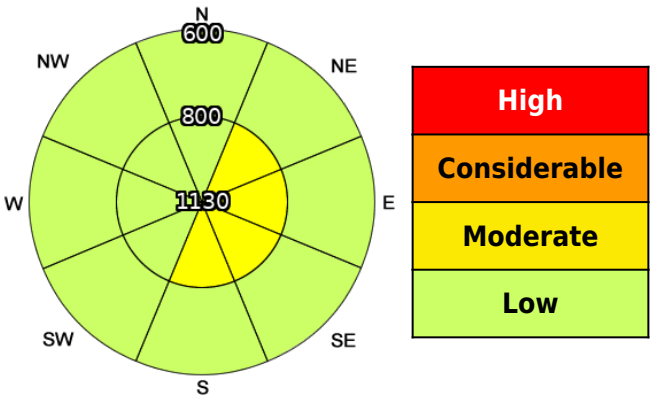

Wet Snow

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Instabilities will be present in all recently formed windslab on steep North East through East to South aspects above 850m. Period of poorer stability in these locations as temperatures rise during the afternoon. Recently formed cornices will become weak and prone to collapse later in the day. Good stability on ridges and all recent windward slopes. The avalanche hazard will be Moderate.

Forecast Weather Influences

Snow showers dying out overnight then dry before the onset of a little light rain in the afternoon. Remaining cold for a time but noticeably milder during the afternoon. North West winds easing to light before dawn, becoming moderate South Westerly by early evening.

Comments

Poorer stability as temps rise in the afternoon.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.