

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 27/12/2024

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Any new snow will not be significant. The remaining small snow patches will continue to thaw and will be stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Light precipitation is expected throughout the period, initially falling as snow above around 1000 metres this evening, then rain at all levels thereafter when the freezing level rises well above the summits. Winds will be light mainly South-South-Easterly overnight, increasing to moderate during the day and veering South-Westerly.

Comments

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.