

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 16/03/2025

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Superficial snow cover will continue to thaw and diminish on all but the highest summits. Recent accumulations will continue to consolidate and demonstrate generally good stability. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Limited potential for a trace of snow above 950 metres overnight, followed by a dry day. Moderate North-Westerly, veering North-Easterly winds. Freezing level rising to 1150 metres by mid-afternoon.

Comments

High pressure maintaining settled weather for the start of next week, with slightly cooler temperatures expected.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.