

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE MODERATE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 09/03/2010

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will continue to consolidate and stabilise on most aspects and levels. Weaknesses will persist in the snowpack on most aspects, but will be confined to the steepest slopes, convexities and isolated locations where windslab accumulations have formed, mainly above 950 metres. The avalanche hazard will be Moderate.

Forecast Weather Influences

Little change is expected, with dry and variable light winds and a freezing level of 700 metres.

Comments

Great weather for the next few days.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.