

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE CONSIDERABLE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 19/12/2010

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Cold temperatures will maintain weaknesses in the snowpack on many aspects above 750m. Stability will remain marginal to poor on steep ground which has a covering of new or older windslab. Wind-exposed North-East to South-East aspects expected to show better stability. The avalanche hazard will be Considerable.

Forecast Weather Influences

Remaing cold with light snow showers on light to moderate Easterly winds.

Comments

Skis a good idea for access up the path but poor quality skiing in all steeper locations away from the beaten track.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.