

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE HIGH

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 08/03/2011

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

New unstable accumulations of windslab will form in sheltered locations on mostly North to East aspects where avalanches will occur, other aspects will also be affected due to cross loading. Any areas exposed to the wind will be scoured and remain stable. The avalanche hazard will be High.

Forecast Weather Influences

Heavy snow will fall on strong South-Westerly winds. The freezing level will lower to around 500 metres.

Comments

Likely to be a difficult day in the hills.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.