

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE CONSIDERABLE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 15/03/2011

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Some re-distribution of snow will occur and avalanches are likely due to additional storm snow accumulations as well as fluctuating freezing levels on mainly South-East through West to Northerly aspects above 750 metres. The avalanche hazard will be Considerable

Forecast Weather Influences

The weather forecast and situation are complex. Freezing levels will fluctuate but will be around 600- 450 metres. Winds will be Easterly overnight then South -Easterly and variable in the day. Moderate snowfalls are forecast with sleet at times dependent on elevation.

Comments

Avalanche conditions are tricky just now. The next 24 hours has a wide variety of changeable conditions; winds, snow/sleet amounts and freezing levels.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.