

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE CONSIDERABLE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 30/12/2011

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

New snow, redistribution of recent snow and rising temperatures will create unstable wind slab on nearly all aspects, from North-West, through North to East and South-East above 850 metres where avalanches are likely. The avalanche hazard will be Considerable.

Forecast Weather Influences

The wind will back from being predominantly Westerly to North-West and later South-East. Freezing level will rise on Friday to near the tops. Snow earlier on will change to rain below around 850 metres.

Comments

Areas of poorly bonded snow are not large or widespread at higher elevations nonetheless a carefull eye for route finding is required.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.