

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOWAvalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 15/01/2012*Avalanche Problems*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The distribution of the surface hoar is not widespread. It lies on North-East to East aspects above 550 metres in sheltered locations. It developed on the small patches of new snow that fell on Thursday. The snowpack will remain well bonded and stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Another mostly clear day is forecast with light Southerly winds below the tops. There will be a little warming on South aspects but otherwise the freezing level will be 300-500 metres.

Comments

Main easy gullies on North, North-East to East aspects in good shape.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.