

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE CONSIDERABLE*Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 31/01/2012*Avalanche Problems*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Accumulations will be found mainly above 600 metres with moderately to poorly bonded windslab above around 800 metres on mostly West through North to North-Easterly aspects. Other aspects may be affected due to cross loading. New unstable cornice development will continue. The avalanche hazard will be Considerable

Forecast Weather Influences

It will remain cold with some overnight snow falling on strong South-Easterly winds.

Comments

Poor visibility this morning but good feedback on conditions from search and rescue teams on the hill.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.