

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 14/03/2012

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The limited in extent snowpack; on mainly East aspects above 950 metres, will remain well bonded and stable in all locations. Surface instabilities will be possible on steep sun affected slopes. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Freezing level overnight at summit levels, then above in the day, with temperature inversion. Dry with South-Westerly winds.

Comments

East aspects hold snow - enough to crack a few turns!Colder weather for thursday.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.