

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 14/03/2012

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Generally good stability throughout. The slow thaw will continue and any glide cracks will continue to widen on a few very steep selected North East to South East aspects. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Settled conditions , dry overnight with a sharp temperature inversion around summit levels . Some patchy light rain possible during the day. Winds will be moderate Westerly.

Comments

Remaining cool with temperature inversion around summits

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.