

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 25/03/2012

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The remaining snowpack, which is most extensive on North to East aspects above 800 metres, will continue to thaw and consolidate. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

It will remain dry and sunny and also be unseasonably warm with summit temperatures just about reaching double figures.

Comments

Very warm conditions expected on Sunday and early next week. Ice fall will be a hazard high on Ben Nevis. Next avalanche forecast will be issued on Thursday the 29th.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.