

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Saturday 05/01/2013

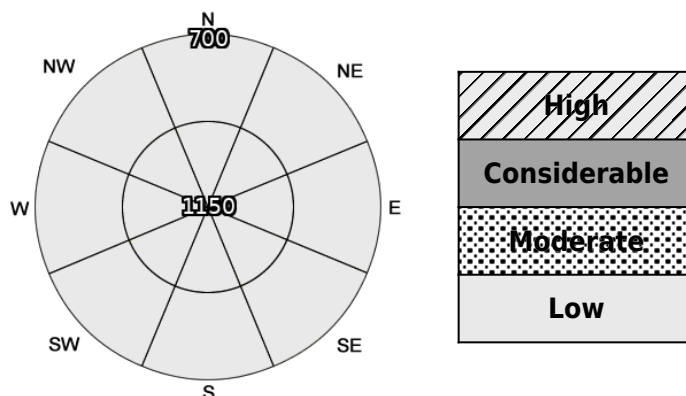

Avalanche Problems

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will continue to thaw at all levels and stability will generally be good. Any remaining cornices will be prone to spontaneous collapse. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

It is expected to remain mild, with the freezing level above the summits throughout the forecast period. Overnight and morning light rain is expected to become heavy and more persistent during the afternoon.

Comments

Remaining mild.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.