

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 11/01/2013

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Little change; any light snow flurries are unlikely to bring any significant change to the existing patchy snow cover which will remain firm and well-bonded in all locations. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Cool , freezing levels 900m lowering to 750m during the day. It will remain mostly dry although a few light snow flurries are possible throughout. Winds will be fresh South Easterly.

Comments

Becoming slightly cooler and wintrier

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.