

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 10/02/2013

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

As the freezing level drops, the existing moist snowpack will gradually freeze and become stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Cold and dry weather is expected with the freezing level lowering to around 500m. Winds will be Light to Moderate from the South-East

Comments

Colder temperatures expected tomorrow will refreeze the existing snowpack

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.