

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Saturday 19/04/2014

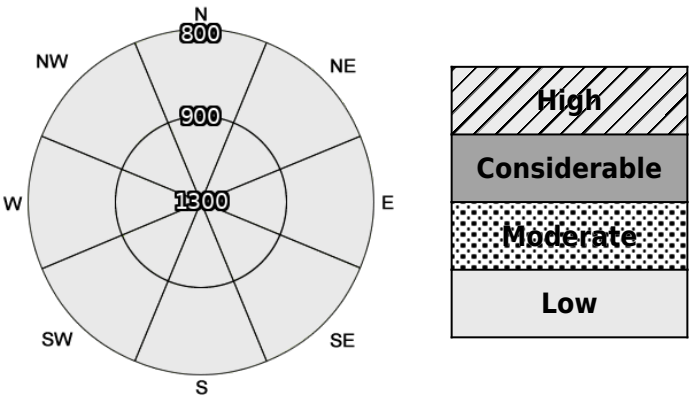

Avalanche Problems

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The diminished snowpack will remain well bonded and stable in all areas. Surface instabilities on steep sun affected slopes are possible and cornices that remain above many steep slopes will become weak with collapse possible. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Little change with the weather is expected, dry and calm conditions throughout the day. Cool overnight on the tops and in the glens, with freezing levels rising to above the summits during the day.

Comments

A beautiful day, which have been rare this winter! Good tomorrow too.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.