

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE MODERATEAvalanche Hazard Forecast for Monday 29/12/2014*Avalanche Problems*Persistent Weak Layers*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Thaw conditions will start to set in at lower elevations. Moderately bonded deposits will be found in sheltered locations on North through East to South-West aspects from 700 metres. The avalanche hazard will be Moderate.

Forecast Weather Influences

A dry, clear and sunny day is forecast. North-West winds will back to the South-West and strengthen from moderate to fresh. The freezing level will rise to the summits.

Comments

Good weather conditions expected on the 29th December.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.