

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE HIGH

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 07/01/2015

Avalanche Problems

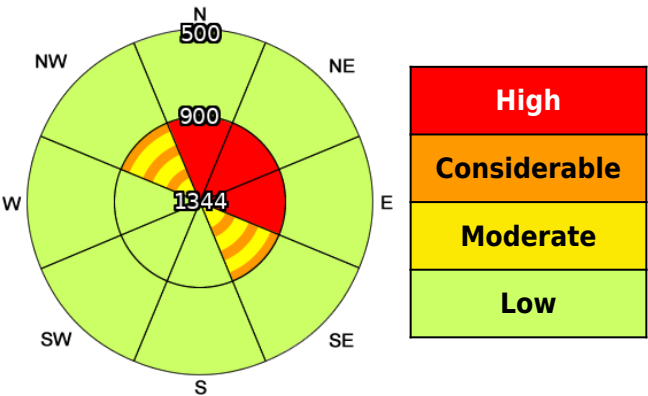

Wet Snow

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The existing soft windslab will become increasingly unstable as the freezing level rises during the morning. Wet snow avalanches will occur mainly on steep North, North-East and East aspects above 900m. Cornices will be prone to collapse. The avalanche hazard will be High

Forecast Weather Influences

It will remain cold and showery overnight however heavy rain at all levels will arrive on Wednesday morning. Winds will increase and back to the South.

Comments

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.