

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 15/02/2015

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will continue to consolidate the settled conditions. Stability will generally be good throughout. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

It will remain dry but with strengthening Southerly winds. The main freezing level will be around 800 metres, but due to inversion conditions temperatures on the summits may rise above freezing.

Comments

Dry but increasingly windy on Sunday. Wind, rain and snow (i.e a return to normal service) expected next week.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.