Creag Meagaidh

Avalanche Hazard Forecast

Issued 19/02/2015

FOR PERIOD 18:00HRS Thu 19/02/2015 TO 18:00HRS Fri 20/02/2015

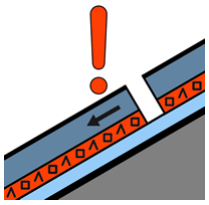

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE CONSIDERABLE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 20/02/2015

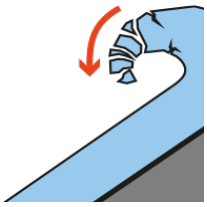

Avalanche Problems

Wind Slab

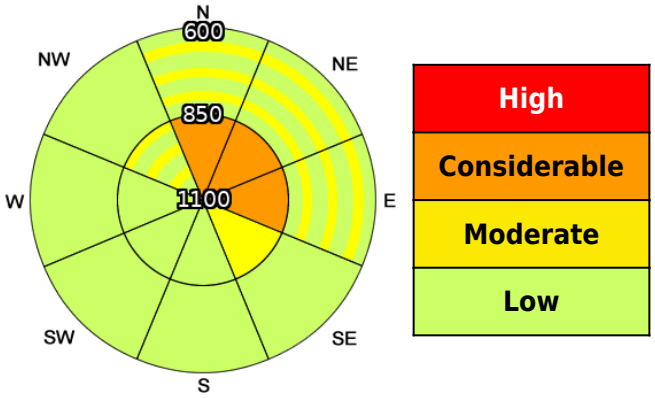

Persistent Weak Layers

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Good stability on all slopes and ridge-lines directly exposed to the wind. Poor stability mainly on very steep North to East facing scarp slopes and gullies above 850m where avalanches are likely. Weak cornice development expected over steep lee slopes. The avalanche hazard will be Considerable

Forecast Weather Influences

Snow showers overnight and throughout the day carried on strong West-South-Westerly winds. Remaining cold. Freezing level around 500 metres.

Comments

Wintry today with snow falling to all levels by afternoon. Effective snow line 600m. Best snow-ice above 750m on Thursday, though wet snow below this altitude.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.