

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOWAvalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 20/03/2016*Avalanche Problems*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will be well bonded and stable on all aspects with generally firm snow throughout. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

A clear night will be followed by a cloudy but dry day. Fresh, generally North-Westerly winds will ease to moderate during the day. Cooler conditions giving a daytime temperature of 2 degrees centigrade at 900 metres.

Comments

Clear, cold night and cloudy day = much firmer snow conditions on Sunday.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.