

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 22/03/2016

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will generally be well bonded and stable. Some localised wet snow surface instabilities will be present on steep North-East to South-East aspects above 1100 metres. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Moderate West to South-West winds. Mostly dry with some drizzle. Freezing level around summit height overnight then rising during the day.

Comments

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.