

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 18/01/2017

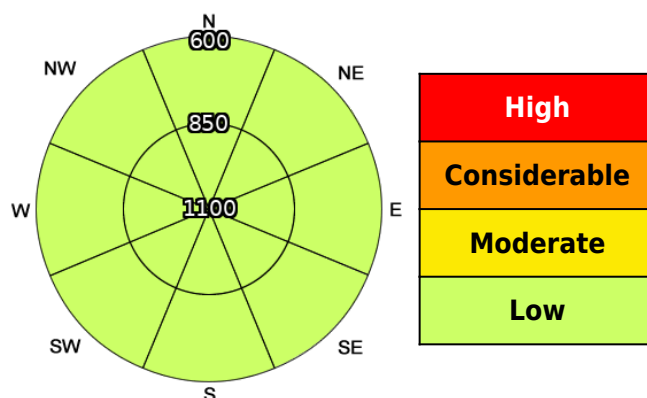

Avalanche Problems

Cornices

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The depleted snowpack will remain moist and generally well consolidated. Residual cornices will continue to slump in the sustained thaw. Rock fall a potential hazard in present weather conditions. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

Mild throughout with a little light rain at times. Moderate to strong South-West winds. General freezing level well above summits.

Comments

Poor visibility today and forecast to be the same on Weds.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.