

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Wednesday 20/12/2017

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will continue to thaw and consolidate in the mild conditions. Stability will be generally good in all locations. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

It will be a mild and wet night with rain falling at all levels. This will clear before dawn to give a generally dry day. The freezing level will slowly fall to reach the highest summits by the end of the day.

Comments

Snow and ice disappearing rapidly in the mild conditions.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.