

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOWAvalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 18/03/2018*Avalanche Problems*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snow pack which is extensive above 650 metres will remain well consolidated, firm and generally stable on all aspects. Wind scoured slopes will remain frozen and stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Staying cold, fresh East-South-East winds becoming strong Easterly in direction overnight, slightly reducing in strength by tomorrow evening. No precipitation is expected and the freezing level will remain low rising to around 390 meters later.

Comments

Wonderful clear views today in the North-West.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.