

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 28/12/2018

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Little change is expected in the snowpack which will continue to slowly thaw and consolidate. Snow cover remains patchy with the main deposits above 850 metres. Stability will generally be good. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Strengthening South-South-West winds accompanied by a period of persistent rain overnight. Winds moderating by dawn becoming light and Westerly in direction with the freezing level remaining above the summits during the period.

Comments

Remaining mild

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.