

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 30/12/2018

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Little change; the very sparse snowpack will remain limited to coire rims, gully tops and isolated patches above 900 metres. Conditions will remain stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low

Forecast Weather Influences

A wet day in prospect with rain and drizzle persisting at all levels overnight and during the day. Freezing levels will lower briefly to around 1100 metres before rising again by dawn to above summits. The fresh South-Westerly winds will strengthen West-South-Westerly as the day progresses.

Comments

Continuing mild

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.