

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 04/01/2019

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Little change is expected in the snowpack. It will remain limited in extent and mainly found above 900 metres. What does exist will remain firm and stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Very similar weather tomorrow, remaining cloudy above 750 metres with light to moderate wind, mainly from a South-Westerly direction. The freezing level around 900 metres and very little precipitation.

Comments

With the cold temperatures many sections of paths are icy.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.