

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 11/01/2019

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Little change to the snowpack which will remain limited in extent and mainly found above 900 metres. What does exist will remain well bonded and stable. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

It should be predominantly dry through the report period with the freezing level remaining above the summits. Overnight, winds will strong West-North-Westerly backing during the day to become Westerly and easing slightly.

Comments

Cooler on Friday evening and Saturday morning with some light snow expected at summit level.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.