

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE MODERATE

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 20/01/2019

Avalanche Problems

Persistent Weak Layers

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Isolated pockets of unstable snow are expected in sheltered hollows and gullies above 900 metres on North through East to South-East aspects. These will not be extensive and should in general be avoidable. Elsewhere the snowpack will be shallow and stable. The avalanche hazard will be Moderate.

Forecast Weather Influences

A front will bring a period of light snow during the morning. Variable winds will become North-Westerly. The freezing level will be around 600 metres.

Comments

A fair bit of fresh snow expected early next week!

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.