

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOWAvalanche Hazard Forecast for Sunday 21/03/2021*Avalanche Problems*Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will remain well bonded and stable in all locations. The snowpack will refreeze at all levels overnight and soften only gradually as the freezing level rises through the day. The snow cover will be very patchy below 900 metres, better above and good on summit plateau areas. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

It will be a dry cloudy day with moderate West-North-Westerly winds. The freezing level will fall to around 600 metres by early morning rising gradually back up to 1100 metres by the end of the afternoon.

Comments

Freezing level will be around summit levels on Monday before becoming slightly warmer again on Tuesday

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.