

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Friday 26/11/2021

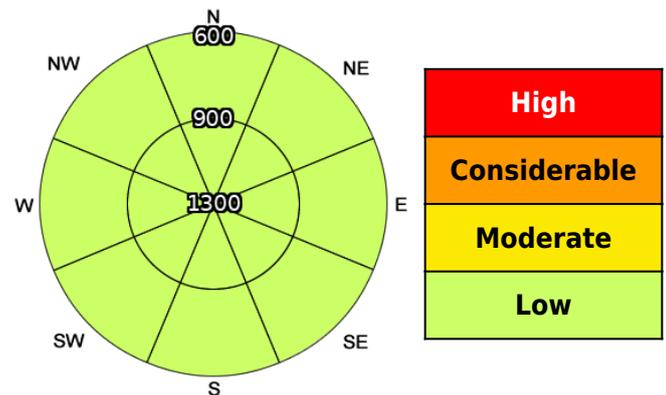

Avalanche Problems

Wind Slab

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

Fresh windslab will be deposited in sheltered areas through the period, mainly on North-East through East to South aspects above 900 metres. Accumulations will continue to build through the period but are not expected to gain significant depth and extent. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Winds are expected to be strong West-South-Westerly during the evening, veering overnight to North-Westerly and strengthening during the day. Frequent snow showers are expected throughout the period, more persistent during the afternoon. Overnight the freezing level will rise to 1000 metres then drop to around 500 metres during the day.

Comments

Very strong winds and blizzard conditions are expected during Friday.

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.