

THE AVALANCHE HAZARD WILL BE LOW

Avalanche Hazard Forecast for Tuesday 25/01/2022

Avalanche Problems

Forecast Snow Stability & Avalanche Hazard

The snowpack will remain well bonded and stable. Any fresh snow accumulations are not expected to be significant. The avalanche hazard will be Low.

Forecast Weather Influences

Moderate South-South-Westerly winds will increase during the day. Mostly dry until the afternoon when precipitation will fall as snow on the higher summits. The freezing level will be around 1300 metres, but it will fall to 1000 metres for a time during the day.

Comments

View the latest avalanche report

Scan the QR code to view the full Avalanche Hazard Report on the SAIS website.